Open air cremation in Colorado

Listen in for funeral planning help

Member Conference Call

Sunday, February 14, at 8 p.m. ET | 5 p.m. PT

The Crestone End Of Life Project (CEOLP) operates one of the only legal, open-air cremation sites in the state of Colorado. This ancient and inspirational end-of-life choice returns the body to its original fire and air elements. Family or friends of the deceased work with CEOLP staff to plan the ceremony, and various teams from our organization are trained to produce a deeply meaningful context for marking the passage of a loved one into death, including home funerals.

Listen to Stephanie Gaines, Founder and Director, discuss the operation of and shares stories about the open-air cremation facility. You can learn more about the project at Creston End of Life Project.

Help us with the fun stuff

Anne needs volunteers for events planning

We know some of you are great at envisioning and creating cool events – and we want you! Join us as we create new events to raise awareness, funds and build our NHFA community. You'll be supporting us and connecting with other members on our new Events Committee. Together we will work to create two new NHFA events in 2016.

Contact NHFA Board Member, Anne Murphy at anniemurph@gmail.com or 651-964-9128.
